The ruddy sunset lies
Isanked along the west.
In flocks with sweep and rise
The birds are going to reat.

The sir clings and cools, And the reeds look cold

And the reeds look cold Standing above the pools Like rods of beaten gold. The flaunting golden-rod Has lost her worldly mood She's given herself to God And taken a nun's hood.

The wild and wanton horde That kept the summer revet Have taken the serge and cord And given the slip to the dell.

From the feel of the air
I think it will freeze to-night.

The First Iron Furnace West of the Alle-

The ruins stand in the barnyard of Mason Tarr, a descendant of one of the former operators of the furnace, on King's creek, Butler township, Hancock county, W. Va., about seven miles northeast of Steubenville, O. This furnace was erected by a man named Grant, in 1794, and operated by a com-pany of which he was a member. They, however, shortly failed, and it passed into the hands of Connell, Tarr & Wilson, in 1797, who operated it with more or less regularity until its final aban-

It was built up of sandstone and lined with soapstone which, we all know, is capable of standing a most intense heat. The lining was as hard and brightly glazed the day the writer saw it, about three weeks ago, as though a heat had been made in it the day before.

The iron ore was obtained in the fore.

The iron ore was obtained in the hills of the immediate neighborhood, some of which has been used by one of the Steubenville furnaces within the last decade, but with small success, owing to its low percentage, being only 3½ per cent pure. The furnace was blown by a bellows, operated by horse-power, one horse doing the work, and said to have been driven by a slave owned by the operators. It is said the furnace would average about ten tons a week, quite a difference from the capacity of some of the furnaces now west of the Alleghenies.

The territory about the furnace for quite a distance has been stripped of its wood and made into charcoal, which was the fuel used in smelting. A great portion of the metal there produced was moulded into skillets, kettles, grates, etc., which found a market at the furnace, the purchasers being from the sparsely settled regions for twenty-five miles in all directions. Many of these articles are still in nossession of these articles are still in nossession of

In 1814 the company then operating it failed, and the fires were never again rekindled. Even in those days the iron business had its ups and downs. As Virginia is the mother of Presidents, can it not be correctly called the mother of the iron business in the West? This furnace was always called the Brooke Furnace in honor of Robert Brooke, who became governor of Virginia the year it was erected, he being governor from 1794 to 1796.

YOSEMITE'S RIVAL

Shall Uncle Sam Turn King's River Valley Into a Park. John Mair in the Century.

In the vast Sierra Wilderness, far to the southward of the famous Yosemite valley, there is a yet grander valley of the same kind. It is situated on the south fork of King's river, above the most extensive groves and forests of the giant sequoia, and beneath the shadows of the highest mountains in the range, where the canons are deepest and the snow-laden peaks are crowded most closely together. It is called the Big King's River Canon, or King's River

THE SIZE OF THE VALLEY. It is about ten miles long, half a mile wide, and the stupendous rocks of purplish gray granite that form the walls are from 2,500 to 5,000 feet in height, while the depth of the valley below the general surface of the mountain mass from which it has been carved is considerably more than a mile.

In this valley are grand cascades, nat-

In this valley are grand cascades, natural deer parks, meadows, pastures and gardens. One of the grandest of the mountains is Glacier Monumeut. The largest meadow in the valley lies at the foot of the Grand Sentinel. It is noted for its fine greath, agreet in the same of the grand Sentinel.

for its fine growth of sweet-brier rose. THE BOOM OF AVALANCHES. Snow falls every winter about the valley to a depth of ten or twenty feet, and the booming of avalanches is a common sound. Nevertheless the frail-est flowers, blue and gold and purple, bloom on the brows of the great canon recks, and on the fresty peaks, up to a height of 13,000 feet, as well as in sheltered hollows and on level meadows and lake borders and banks of streams.

WILD MOUNTAIN MELODY.

The descent of the King's river streams is mostly made in the form of cascades, which are out-spread in flat cascades, which are out-spread in flat plume-like sheets on smooth slopes, or are squeezed in narrow-throated gorges, boiling, seething, in deep swirling pools, pouring from lin to lin, and breaking into ragged tossing masses of spray and foam in boulder-choked canons—making marvelous mixtures with the downpouring sunbeams, displaying a thousand forms and colors, and giving forth a great variety of wild mountain melody.

A NATURAL PARK.

A NATURAL PARK.
All of this wonderful King's River region, together with the Kaweah and Tule sequoias, should be comprehended in one grand national park. This region contains no mines of consequence it is too high and rocky for agriculture, and even the lumber industry need suffer no unreasonable restriction. Let our law-givers then make haste before it is too late to set apart this surpassingly glorious region for the recreation and well being of humanity, and all the world will rise up and call them blessed. gion, together with the Kaweah and

SECRETARY TRACY COMMENDED By the National Civil Service Reform League at Buffalo.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—Secretary Tracy has received the following communication: NEW YORK, Oct. 29, 1891.

Sir:—We were directed by the National Civil Service Reform League at its late annual meeting in Buffalo respectfully to transmit to you a copy of the enclosed resolution accepted by the league.

Very respectfully,

George William Curtis,

President.

William Ports. Secretary

WILLIAM POTTS, Secretary.

WILLIAM Ports, Secretary.

The league declares its high appreciation of the great and patriotic services rendered to the country and to the interests of reform by the Secretary of the Navy in his proper comprehension and thorough application of sound principles of administration in the selection, both of skilled and unskilled employes in the national navy yards, which have been seenes of the most excesses of the spoils system. The league trusts that spoils system. The league trusts that this great measure of reform will be se-cured permanently by an executive or-der, which alone can make it a part of the general system under the law ad-ministered by the national civil service commission."

To Suspend Silver Colunge Temporarily. NEW YORK, Nov. 5 .- The New York Chamber of Commerce to-day appointed a committee of five, including exa committee of five, including ex-Mayor Hewitt and Carl Schurz, to urge upon Congress such modification of the act of July 14, 1891, as will suspend the further purchase of silver and ad-ditional coinage of the same until an international agreement is arrived at between the United States and other commercial nations of the world. Pres-ident Harrison was also petitioned to call the attention of Congress to the subject in his next message.
